Prescription Drugs & Marijuana

June 11, 1983~July 21, 2005

This is my brother Gee. He was a beautiful person, full of life and promise. He had plenty of friends and a smile like no other. His smile would light up a room.

My brother had a dark secret. He was addicted to marijuana and he couldn't live without it. He was depressed and always down. He lost his grandfather in early July. He felt he didn't have anything to live for; not even his two young children. On the night of July 20th, my brother was so depressed he took a combination of muscle relaxers and sleeping pills. He was found dead on the morning of July 21st.

Gee left behind six brothers and sisters who adored him, and two young children who will never feel their father's love again. He left suddenly. When I look back, I can see the signs I ignored—the signs of his addiction—the addiction that would eventually lead to his death.
